STAYING POWERS OF JOUBERT.

His Retreat at Glencoe Was Only a Ruse to Deceive the British.

London, Oct. 28,-The British evi dently underestimated Joubert's staying powers when they thought they had him whipped for good after Friday's battle in the Glencor hills.

Since Friday, however, Joubert has engaged his foes twice, first at Elands. laagte Saturday and again in the vicinity of Glencoe yesterday. The British claim a complete victory at Elandslaagte, but the result of the second attack at or near Glencoe Sunday is yet unknown.

Apparently only a small division of George White's troops while the wily Boer secured re-inforcements and fresh wind, and again assaulted Glencoe to retrieve if possible Friday's defeat. The whole Boer retreat after the rout at without purpose, as Joubert says he was unable to hold his own against Symons' command, and so withdrew to a point where he had a large body of fresh

The fact that the British cavalry pursued him did not bother him, as the chase had not proceeded far when Joubert rallied his men, turned on the British horse, and gave them battle, though the result of his preliminary skirmish is not reported, it is quite likely that the Boers succeeded in driving the British back.

ADMIRAL DECLARES HE WILL NOVEL SCHEME BY HIAWATHA,

NEVER BE PRESIDENT.

Should Be One Straight from the. Shoulder with Pienty of Force Behind It-His Views on the Matter of Matrimony.

New York, Oct. 23-John Carver was fortunate enough to have an interview with Admiral Dewey, in which the latter seemed to be in a talking mood. In a copyrighted contribution to the New York Journal this morning, Mr. Carver says in part: "I am not a candidate for president. I never will be." Admiral Dewey made this statement to me, and it was said with emphasis and sincerity.

"It is an honor no man can too!deeply appreciate," he continued thoughtfully, to be considered as a worthy candidate for this great office, but a naval officer should be content with the honors that come to him in the exercise of his professional duties.

"Politics should be less a matter of party than principle, I'll confess to a desire to see the best man win, always. An officer in the navy, however, should avoid politics. I don't mean by that that he should not have opinions. God forbid! He must be satisfied when the age limit is reached, to be placed on the shelf with credit." "But the shelf of credit does not come to many men," it was suggested.

"Perhaps his opportunity for distinguishing service may come late in life-mine come when I was 60—but one thing is certain, it will come.

"The real reward lies in the knowledge of duty performed successfully. If the Apparently only a small division of Joubert's forces was engaged at Elands only stop and think he will see for him self that in their hearts the people are not applauding him, but only results.

"If through the carelessness or disobedience of any of the officers, one or more of our ships had been destroyed and the Spanish fleet proved too much for us it is quite among the possibilities we might have been called daring to a degree that was foolbardy. Then it would have been different. So you see, don't you, that it is the results that are applauded and not the man?"

What policy would you pursue with Aguinaldo and his followers?" One straight from the shoulder and with plenty of force behind it."

"It is always bad policy to try and avoid necessary responsibilities," the Admiral continued, "in the case of the Philippines there is mercy in force and untold misery in procrastination." "From time to time, Admiral it has been hinted that you are likely to marry again?"

"The state of matrimony like the state of Vermont, is pleasant to enter into but I have no idea of making such an invasion.

"Not because of the age limit, Admiral."

"Not at all, not at all. A man only becomes old when he feels that way. It is merely a matter of intentions."

MAY CONSOLIDATE THE CHURCHES

KAS., EDITOR.

He Says the Policy Toward Aguinaldo Church Trust Proposed Including the Consolidation of the Fifteen Church Societies in That City-Plan Allege, To Be an Improvement Over the Old Way of Spreading the Gospel.

Hiawatha, Kan., Oct. 23 -The first practical trial of the church trust scheme proposed by Rev. C. M. Sheldon in his work, "The Miracle of Markham," is to be made in this city if present plans do not miscarry. Ewing Herbert, editor of the World, has begun active work looking to the consolidation of the fif. teen churches in the city. A letter has been sent to each pastor and communicant and to all the leading citizens arguing in favor of consolidation. A practical plan of consolidation is being formed and will be announced as soon as the letters have had time to arouse interest. The letters say in part:

We have fourteen or fifteen ministers who perform their duties religiously enough but one good vigorous man could give our town all the spiritual advice and comfort our people need and can carry. The town is comparatively free from vice. There is more wickedness across the road from the Tansas City Union depot than our people have ever seen or know. If our christians are followers of Christ, in the highest sense, they must realize that they are doing little to spread the gospei.

"One church which will embrace all the christians is a great plenty in any town. We have more than 1,000 or 1,500 steady churchgoers but we have a church capacity of 3,500 at a cost of probably $25,000 a year, and endless discord and envy and church pride, a striving to outdo one another but seldom in Christ's name for Christ's sake. We need a Cromwell to do some dissolvinģ."

Ruskin on Cycling:

In these days of the cycling craze, the views of John Ruskin, the Sage of Brantwood, who is now 80 years of age, appear altogether out of date. Once he wrote to a friend: prepared to spend all my best 'bad language' in reprobation of bi-, tri-, and 4-, 5-, 6- or even 7-cycles, and every other contrivance and invention for superseding human feet on God's ground. To walk, to run, to leap, and to dance are the virtues of the human body, and neither to stride on stilts. wriggle on wheels, nor dangle on ropes, Nothing in the training of the human mind with the body will ever supersede the appointed God's way of walking."

Fire at Weddings.

Fire is an essential in some wedding celebrations. In Persia the service is read in front of a fire. In Nicaragua the priest, taking the couple each by the little finger, leads them to an apartment where a fire is lighted, and there instructs the bride in her duties, extinguishing it by way of conclusion. In Japan the woman kindles a torch, and the bridegroom lights one from it, the play things of the wife being burnt then and there.

When Corsets Were Cages. What a blessing it is to know that the corset is not a modern atrocity to hear that even the lovely Greeks, so long held up before us as models of feminine beauty, wore a simplified version of them, and that the heaviest and stiffest cage that we can buy today would not come up to the articles worn by our fair ancestors of the sixteenth century. At that time the corsets were cages, sure enough, for they were made of iron. Not merely a steel gatepost or two up the front, but a whole iron paling, riveted together in the firmest and securest manner. Oh, we may be exceedingly silly, but our forefathers -or, in this case, foremothers-were a deal sillier.

GREAT WORK OF THE BAUGERS

Richards' Long Run Brings Yale an Unearned Victory

Nothing but praise ought to be served to the Wisconsin team for it brilliant game with Yale Saturday, but still it is impossible not to express disappointment that one of the Badger tackles did not bring down Richards shot of the sixty-five yards that meant defeat for an eleven that did not deserve defeat. There is no play possible on the gridiron as Churches Were Well Filled the result of which a m an should cover the result of which a im an should cover sixty-five yards and still retain the ball. It is hardly fair, either, to denominate such a result a fluke, but certainly the sixty-five yards and still retain the ball. Devotional exercises last evening such a result a fluke, but certainly the Yale touchdown was scarcely earned.

A careful study of the reports of the great contest lead to the inevitable conclusion that the teams were about as evenly matched as they could well be, and that the score should have stood a tie at naught, as would have been the case if Richards had not gone around Juneau's end for that touchdown. Badgers and Elis had played each other to a standstill until that fatal play that Wisconsin is still not able to explain but only to mourn. It was a magnificent struggle, yielding magnificent result. There is hardly a doubt now that the western teams are in the same class as the leaders of the east. If Yale had undergone the long trip to Madison perhaps the result would have been reversed.

The long run that rewarded lusty Yale throats for loyal support came late in the second half. Richard had replaced Chadwick at right half after the intermission. Wisconsin's detence was atill resisting every effort of the Elis to advance the ball, when the signal came for Richards to take a try around Juneau. The Badger end was boxed in, and his attempt to stop the big New Haven runner fell short. Peele was the next to be shaken off, and then O'Dea, the Wisconsin captain, tailed to bring down his man. Rodgers, the Wisconsin guard, sprinted after Richards, got his hands on him, but again the Eli passed clear, the goal line was crossed, the gama won.

Main Body of Joubert's Forces Attack British Position.

THEIR PLANS WERE WELL LAID

Sacrifice at Elandsiangle . Ruse to Draw Gen. White as Far from Base as Possible-Loss to Both Sides Heavy -Rumor of European Intervention.

Official and unofficial dispatches show that the capture of Elandslaagte by the British Saturday was a brilliant feat of arms, although accomplished only with great loss. The British killed and wounded numbered about 150, according to the report sent to the war office in London by Gen. Sir George White. That of the Boers is placed at a much higher figure, while many were captured. The force of the Boers approximated 1,200, while the British had a much larger number. The burghers were strongly intrenched and in many respects the battle was like that at Dundee hill. Remarkable bravery was shown by the Boers, especially in repeatedly returning to their guns after they had beeen silenced by the British artillery.

London, Oct. 23.-The war department this morning has heard nothing official of the second Glencoe battle, which indicates that either the fighting is extremely severe and the battle is still undecided or else it is, barely possible that the fight at Elandslaagte is -confused into a second Glencoe fight. The latest official list of the British losses gave 39 killed and 175 wounded. The British evidently underestimated Joubert's staying powers when they thought they had him whipped for good after Friday's battle in the Glencoe

Since Friday, however, Joubert has engaged his foes twice, first at Elandslaagte, and again in the vicinity of Glencoe Sunday. The British claim a complete victory at Elandslaagte, but the result of the second attack at or mear Glencoe Sunday is yet unknown.

Apparently only a small division of Joubert's force was engaged at Elandstaagte on Saturday to keep Gen. Sir George White's troops busy while the wily Boer secured re-enforcements and fresh wind, and again assaulted Glencoe to retrieve if possible Friday's defeat. The whole Boer retreat after the rout at Glencoe hills was a movement not without purpose, as Joubert saw he was unable to hold his own against Gen. Symons' command, and so withdrew to a point where he had a large body of fresh troops.

The fact that the British cavalry pursued him did not bother him, as the chase had not proceeded far when Joubert rallied his men, turned on the British horse and gave them battle. Though the result of this preliminary skirmish is not reported, it is quite likely that the Boers succeeded in driving the British back.

Joubert is found facing Glencoe again Sunday with 9,000 men, while White is thirty miles away in the direction of Elandslaagte.

Gen. Yule, who succeeded Gen. Symons, is holding Glencoe with some 4,000 troops, who are suffering from the fatigue of Friday's hard-earned

It is not unlikely that when the returns are received of the Sunday battle lists started in Antwerp, Rotterdam, at Glencoe it may be found that the losses than on Friday, if not defeat.

British reports, however, declare that Gen. Yule is in a good position to hold his own, but it is admitted that there is no certainty yet as to how the balance will turn.

The battle at Elandsiaagte is by far the most serious so far. The British admit losing 160 killed and wounded, while the Boer losses are estimated at 400 killed and thrice that number wounded.

The British officers had better luck on Friday, however, as it is not reported that any were killed.

The Boers have lost Gen, Kock, Piet Joubert, a nephew of Gen. Joubert, who were killled, and Col. Schiel and Commandant Demellion captured. The seriousness of the Elandslaagte fight confirms the belief that the first battle of Glencoe was part of a general combined attack by the Boers from three directions.

Gen. White quickly realized on Friday that this movement was of a most formidable kind, and not only had it so far succeeded that the Boers had established themselves about Elandslaagte on the railway line and severed the connection between Ladysmith and Dundee but had timed themselves so as to lend a hand to the Free Staters known to be advancing in force onon the western flank from the western side around Drakensberg

The conditions at Mafeking, Kimberley and Colesburg remain about the same, and all are expecting an attack momentarily. The Boers at other points are putting in their time looting and destroying everything in sight, keeping the besieged British guessing.

Regarding conditions at Mafeking Col. Baden-Powell is reported alert and confident of holding his own untess the enemy bring heavy artillery

Gen, Symons is still alive, and is reported to have sent his wife word that he is slightly better.

From Boer sources it is learned that the British made another sortie from Mafeking last Thursday, that no Boers were wounded, but three guns were captured. The British loss is believed to be heavy, because pools of blood were seen in the morning.

Expect More Trouble.

·Washington, Oct. 23.—A hostile demonstration against Great Britain in the diplomatic field is expected soon. State department officials read with interest news from various European centers indicating the restiveness of Germany and France and the probability that mediation by Germany will be asked by Kruger after a few fights in South Africa. It is believed here that in such an event Germany will have not only the moral support of France, Russia, Italy, Belgium and Holland, but the material aid of those nations in the presentation of a demand for a cessation of hostilities and the adjustment of the South African difficulty by an arbitration tribunal. The United States will not participate in any such State department officials bemove. lieve this is the beginning of a general European crisis. Washington, Oct. 23.-Congress will be asked to enact further stringent legsquadron has not been seen for two cases. A number of special laws have been passed by congress permitting the importation of Chinese for the exhibitions at Omaha, Nashville, Philadelphia, and other cities, but no provision was made to compel the return of the celestials.

In the general exclusion act there is a clause which permits the landing of Chinese who are to exhibit their skill a's artisans, and actors, but no one is held responsible for the return of the Chinese.

In consequence many have been brought into the country, but few, if any, have been sent back. Nearly all of them prefer to stay in this country, and they found means of escape from the exposition grounds, and secured positions. In this way the Chinese colonies have been constantly growing in spite of the existence and strict enforcement of the exclusion act but the treasury has been powerless to prevent it.

George H. White, the colored member of congress for North Carolina, says he will introduce in the next congress a bill which he believes will go far toward rectifying the deplorable conditions now existing in the southern states. The bill will authorize the exercise of co-ordinate federal and state authority for the protection from lynching of all persons charged with They will be guaranteed a crime, fair and impartial trial and protection thrown around them until the courts shall decide as to their innocence or guilt. #### TRUST IS HARD HIT.

The Illinois Supreme court dealt the trusts a body blow in the case of Charles F. Harding of Chicago, versus the glucose combination. The court holds that this corporation is a trust under the law, and that the parties interested are guilty of conspiracy to defraud. All deeds and instruments transferring property to the trust are annulled, and the lower court is ordered to grant such relief as is consistent, and sustained by the records of the case.

This ruling is a sweeping one, and lawyers are much 'interested. The text of the decision has not yet been given out, but it is unlikely that it will differ materially from the newspaper accounts.

Harding charged that the intent of the combination is for the purpose of regulating and fixing the price and controlling the entire output of glucose and grape sugar throughout the United States, which is in direct violation of the laws of the state. It is further alleged that the organizers and promoters of the trust propose to stop competition, limit production, and regulate prices by closing up several of the plants which they have purchased or agreed to buy.

The court held Harding's view of the case, and remanded the action on the grounds above stated.

This decision, it would appear, has gone much further than any ruling yet made, but the end is not yet, as the trust will doubtless fight the case to the

CANNOT BAR THEM OUT

A decision of much importance to municipalities has just been handed down by the Michigan courts, the substance of it being that common councils yours. Now, George, if you will send cannot refuse the use of streets under proper restrictions. A dispatch from will attend your celebration." Lansing tells the story as follows:

Joseph refused to grant the petitions of the Michigan Telephone company for permission to erect poles and string wires in certain specified streets and alleys. As they had previously ordered the street commissioner to cut down poles already erected, the action amounted to prohibition of the use of "Permission was, however, granted to a rival company. Injunction proceedings followed and the matter has since been

"The supreme court has settled the controversy in favor of the telephone company, holding that it is clearly the duty of the councils to act upon the petitions and establish reasonable rules and regulations governing the erection of poles, etc. It is held that here the authority of the municipality ends and that it has no power to prohibit the use of the streets to telegraph or telephone companies, which have become essential in commercial transactions. Both councils are directed to provide reasonable regulations, designed simply to protect the public from unnecessary obstructions, inconveniences and dangers."

The first impression would be that this decision took from the common council a right that the council should exercise, but a moment's reflection shows that this was not the case. In this instance the aldermen were killing competition by barring out one company for the benefit of another, and it is well for the people that the supreme court interfered. Competition insures good service and reasonable rates. Common councils should not be allowed to legis late out of one man's pocket into another's.

Dispatches announce that the Sioux Indians are making trouble in the Rosebud and Pine Ridge agencies. Doubtless troops will be sent and the poor persecuted savage-original owner of the great land-will be brought to time before he has any chance to scalp any white people. Such a proceeding would doubtless shock the delicate sensibilities of Edward Atkinson, but it would please the "natives"—the men under the scalp-very much indeed.

Sixty carpenters in the city of Janes ville are in favor of forming a Carpenters Union. The matter has been discussed of late and many now advocate taking immediate steps towards organization.

Before the late panic swept the country a Carpenters' Union flourished the Bower City, but it disbanded for lack of interest and financial support. Now that work is again plentiful the men say that there is no reason why they should not have one of the strongest, organizations in this portion of the 🖟 Harnessmakers here are also advocating a union claiming that they are forty strong.

Labor Reported to be Prosperous

Frank J. Weber, general organizer of American Federation of Labor, who was in Janesville at the state labor meeting last June, has forwarded to the head quarters of that organization a report that, as strongly as anything can, indicates a renewal of prosperity throughout Wisconsin. The report is one of those annually called for by the American Federation of Labor to ascertain the labor conditions of each state, the number of strikes won and lost, and the advances or reductions in wages.

"The report," said Mr. Weber at Milwankee, "was necessarily general in many respects. For instance, it would require too great a printing bill to specify in detail the various firms by whom advances in wages had been granted. I estimated that the average advance in wages in Wisconsin for all classes in the year past was 15 per cent. Some of the largest advances were made in Milwaukee by the brewers.

Twenty-two Strikes in a Year

"There were twenty-two strikes in the state, of which eight were won without any concessions by the men, thirteen were settled by arbitration, with concessions on both sides, and one, the coopers' strike in this city, remained unsettled.

"There was a marked difference in the character of the men conducting strikes last year as compared with those of previous years. It is no longer the old-time union man who goes on a strike but these who have organized spon-taneously for that especial purpose, and expected more advantageous conditions would immediately follow because they had banded together. The larger, older and stronger unions are much more conservative than formerly and they re sort to voluntary arbitration with their employers whenever possible. The general tendency is toward a friendly cussion of differences by employer and employee. My report showed that there were 218 unions in the state."

CLAIMS HE IS A MURDERER.

Convict at Stillwater, Minn., Makes Startling Confession.

Stillwater, Minn., Oct. 23.—J. C. Mc-Bride, a convict in the prison here, who was received from Jackson county in December last to serve three years and five months for an assault, has made a remarkable confession to Warden Wolfer in a letter written Oct. 8. In it he told of the murder of two officers, Joseph Grant and John McNott, at Geneva, Ill., Aug. 29, 1896; the murder of Julia Buckmore at Geneva, a postoffice robbery and the murder of one Marshot of Ossawatomie, Kan.; the burglary of a hardware store and the shooting of a policeman at Guide Rock, Neb., and many burglaries and highway robberies. If the story is true he has been a veritable terror.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 23 .- The report from Stillwater penitentiary that J. C. McBride, a convict, has confessed to murdering the city marshai of Guide Rock, Neb., in 1891 is probably false as far as it relates to the Nebraska crime. The authorities do not know N. B. ROBINSON & CO. Wholesale of any marshal of Guide Rock ever having been murdered.

Large Congregations in Scattle Churches —Change Hendquarters.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 23 .- The leaders of the national W. C. T. U. were engaged Sunday in addressing large congregations in the churches of the city. Perhaps the most important action taken by the convention Saturday was the adoption of the resolution removing the headquarters of the national organization from Chicago, where they have been located for many years, to Evanston, Ill., at Rest cottage, the late home of Miss Frances E. Willard.

The amendment making national organizers members of the executive committee of the union was voted down after considerable debate by a two-thirds vote. Another amendment making state secretaries of the Loyal Temperance legion ex-officio delegates to national conventions was carried without opposition.

Attacks the Coinage Bill.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—The Tages Zeltung attacks the coinage bill, which proposes to transform the greater part of the legal tender silver thaler coinage of the individual German states into the ited legal tender. The Tages Zeitung claims the law is an attempt to sneak into an absolute gold circulation, and declares it is a breach in Bismarck's policy. It says the bill will provoke a bitter conflict from the agrarians, who that the present official discount rate of 6 per cent is due to the scarcity of gold.

Big Fire at South Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Twenty-one buildings in the heart of South Chicago were consumed by fire yesterday morning, and for a time the entire suburb was in danger of destruction. As it was, some of its largest and most valuable buildings were reduced to ashes, the total loss being over $125,000, with an insurance amounting to something over $80,000. The fire broke out early in the morning and swept along so rapidly that guests in the Grand Central hotel and residents asleep in their homes barely had time to escape in their night clothes.

How England Will Use Marconi's System In Fighting the Boers.

BY CAPTAIN T. B. FRANCIS.

It is probable that Marconi's wireless telegraphy will be used by the British to aid them in their war against the Boers. By doing so they will forestall the experiments which our own war department was just about to begin.

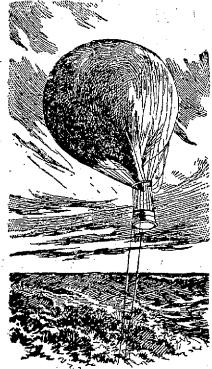

In using the system in South Africa the messages would undoubtedly be sent from kites or captive balloons. which are the means by which signals are sent by the British army in their campaigns in India and Africa.

In the Afghan campaigns detachments frequently communicated with each other across mountain passes 50 miles wide. Such detachments would scarcely ever be more than 200 miles apart, especially in South Africa, where the distances would not be so great as in India.

Wireless messages could be sent a distance of at least 250 miles from balloons or kites raised to an elevation of 250 feet, but probably they would not have to be raised higher than 100 or 150 feet in the event of a campaign against the Boers, owing to the nature of the country.

With regard to such a proposition, it may be stated that Mr. Marconi had already in working order in England eight experimental stations, fully equipped with apparatus and a staff of operators, so that there could readily be detached for service in Natal or wherever the military authorities might require trained operators able to place the invention at the full service of the English military authorities.

The main objection to the use of the wireless telegraph — that an enemy

WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY IN WAR, might easily avail himself of the information being transmitted by erecting receivers of his own-would probably not be sustained in the case of the Boers, who have little predisposition for scientific inventions. That wireless telegraphy may be of the greatest practical benefit for the transmission of information essential to the conduct of military operations has been already partly proved in the recent maneuvers of the British army on Salisbury plain and at sea by the j Within the last week or two Signor Marconi received news of the entire success of the transmission of messages over a distance of more than a hundred miles of sea and land in

The value of the wireless signal system for war service will of course be tremendous, more so than the literature of the day seems to anticipate. There will no longer be any necessity for the dangerous task of laying wires over uncertain territory or of guarding or worrying about the line to see that the circuit is not broken. Messages can be kept flying right over the enemy's head from camp to camp.

The heliograph has been found useful for this reason, but it can be relied upon only over short distances and while the sun is bright. Moreover, the use of the heliographs from tower to tower or from balloon to balloon would necessitate the exposure of men at their utmost heights.

With the wireless device one aerial station simply repeats the message sent from below to the other, which automatically whispers it down a wire to any conveniently fortified place. At the sound of alarm the entire equipment at either end can be disconnected, packed away and made ready for transportation within three minutes.

Suppose a small detachment of men is in some fortress besieged by the enemy on all sides. A distant station, safe inside the lines somewhere, would receive a message stating the circumstances and receive periodical reports as to the condition of the men, their ammunition, provisions and how long they could hold out. This intelligence would roll out of the receiving apparatus as quickly and accurately as stock quotations fall out of the ticker. In the experiments to be made by our own signal corps captive balloons will be sent up to various altitudes. They will be employed instead of the high poles which Marconi has hitherto used. Some of them will be covered with tin foil. Others will carry up plates such as are now attached to the GOES AMONG CANNIBALS

Bride Who Will Spend Her Honeymoon In the Wilds of Africa.

Miss Gertrude Louisa Wood, who was recently married in Brooklyn, is to spend her honeymoon among the savage tribes of central Africa. Miss Wood, who is now the wife of Rev. De Witt Clinton Snyder, has been for years a mission worker connected with a fashionable Brooklyn Presbyterian church. Among the guests at her wedding were 300 children from the slums. Her husband is going to Africa as a missionary, and he will take his bride with him.

Miss Wood founded the Wycoff mission, on the outskirts of Brooklyn, ten years ago and ministered to the com fort of hundreds of poor homes unaided and entirely on her own account. Then she entered the training school of the Brooklyn Homeopathic hospital, from which she was graduated only a few months ago. Her reason for be-coming a nurse was that she might acquire medical knowledge for her du ties in Africa.

After the ceremony the couple started on a brief tour through the south after which they will sail for Europe and from there to Luebo, in the Kongo Free State. They will have to travel far into the interior of the dark conti nent before they reach the place where Dr. Snyder has been a missionary phy sician for seven years.

They will travel by boat up to almost the very source of the Kongo river. From there a 200 mile railroad and then a cance will take them to the place where they will spend their honeymoon. No other white woman bas been in that portion of Africa (where the tribes still practice cannibalism) for years, but Miss Wood looks forward with hope to her work as a forelgn missionary and nurse.

PRESIDENT'S BODYGUARD.

Guards the Chief Executive In His Travels About the Country,

Wherever President Mc-Kinley goes in around the circle he is attended by a big man with a pleasant face and a strong lower jaw. In spite of his smile the average man would be careful about offending this big fellow. He looks as though he might be rather handy with his fists "in a mix up," as the sporting writers

This big fellow, who seems to shadow the chief executive, is Detective Foster, who acts as a private bodyguard to the president when he travels. He always has a weather eye open for cranks. Whenever there is a parade

DETECTIVE FOSTER.

Detective Foster has a seat in the first carriage behind the president. His identity is seldom revealed. To the reception committees he is always introduced as "Mr. Foster, who rides in the second carriage."

Foster never registers. He never tells his business. He never makes himself conspicuous. His skill at making himself inconspicuous makes him an ideal guard. He does not stand at the president's elbow, but he is always somewhere around and near enough to see what everybody does who is near enough to the president to offer harm. Mr. Foster is one of Chief Wilkie's men in the United States secret service, and while he has been in many a big case the public never learns much about him. His success in concealing himself thus from the public is due, it is said, to his utter lack of mystery and alleged mysterious methods.

There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. There is no use talking—a baby in the house is the link that binds husband and wife together. Nothing is sadder than fruitless wedlock. The prattling and cooing of the little ones offset a thousand times the occasional worries and trials of life. When a wife is barren, there is a derangement somewhere in the genital organs, caused by one or more of those common disorders known as "female troubles". Wine of Cardul is the remedy. It puts the organs of generation in a strong and healthy condition, fitting the wife for the sacred duty of reproducing her kind. During the period of gestation the entire system of the expectant mother is built up to withstand the ordeal of labor, and when the little one makes its advent it is lusty and makes its advent it is lusty and strong, well-fitted to grow to maturity in perfect health. The mother, too, passes through the trial with little pain and no dread. Wine of Cardui is truly a wonder-

We don't attempt to "lit every foot" with a just freshly advertised one Shoe. The makes that have made reputations through skill and brain, such as the Hanan for MEN and the John Foster for the LADIES, are as always, alone and The Best. It costs but a little more to have your foot PROPERLY FITTED, and time will tell which is the cheapest way—to buy a good Shoe at first, or be all the time run down at the heel and dissatisfied. We realize it takes time to convince a good many people into this way of thinking, but from the numbers now litted and wealing these makes our efforts are meeting with success.

Notes On Bread-Making. REQUISITES.

FIRST—The best flour (Gold Medal) fresh, sweet yeast, pure water or milk scalded, clean salt, sweet butter or lard, if shortening is used, and a good oven. SECOND—A cook who knows how to use these things or one willing to learn and practice with skill, strength and pa-

Third—Flour should be kept in a dry place. Bring flour, milk or water, and dough to a temperature of 70 degrees; keep doors and windows shut Do not knead dough to stiff; a soft dough makes tender bread. Let it rise to double size, but not over-rise, especially in loaves, this is fatal. To prevent bread from rising unevenly in the oven, turn loat end for end every five minutes. In forty or fifty minutes the loaf will shrink and slip easily from the pan. Should have an evenly browned crust.

Note these points carefully. Next we igive a recipe for water bread.

Champion Pie-Eater

According to a Niles (Mich.) correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald, James Bradt of Mendon, champion pieeater of Michigan, was found dead a few days ago in an out-of-the-way place. No marks of violence were found on his person, and the coroner's jury returned a verdict of heart failure. Bradt was nearly 60 years of age and a typical specimen of the downeast Yankee. He lived in Mendon upward of thirty years. He was tooth-less, and at one time ate ten pies in one hour, the first pie in forty-four seconds.

Washing Colored Flannels.

Colored flannels that are likely to run when washed should be washed with softsoap and catmeal, then well rinsed in clear warm water, in which some common kitchen salt has been dissolved; squeeze the articles through a wringer, shake them lightly and dry as quickly as possible.

Labor Saving Shears.

A German who believes in laborsaving devices has patented a pair of shears with a spring attachment. When a cut has been made and the shears are closed, the spring opens the blades slightly. When they are wide open, ready for cutting, the arrangement acts in the reverse way and assists in closing them. Both actions lighten the work of the cutter.
